

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their 62 stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary, 'Stolen Honor', (and not air a pro-Kerry program, 'Going Upriver', aswell to promote a fair and balanced view) days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line, less of what we need for our democracy, and biased information.

Thank you.
